

Summer Writing Camp

Integrating Writing and Art

For Teachers in grades K-12

Energize your writing program, learn new art techniques and jumpstart your plans for the next school year with innovative ways to integrate writing and art.

The Summer Writing Camp is an opportunity for K-12 classroom teachers to investigate meaningful connection between writing and visual art.

- Learn how integrating writing and visual art can be a valuable tool for explicit teaching of writing concepts.
- Discover how to use art and art images to introduce the “Six Plus One Traits” of writing and utilize them during prewriting activities.
- Explore the connections between these two forms of creative expression.
- Investigate how research validates are integration.
- Experience writers’ workshop sessions integrate with hands-on art lessons.

July 27-31, 2009
9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m.
And
1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Credits: 2 ED 595

Tuition: $150.00

(Limited tuition stipends available)

Grading: Pass/Fail

Instructor: Deborah Piper

Meet the Instructor:

Debbie Piper is a veteran classroom and visual arts teacher at McNeil Canyon Elementary School in Homer. Her passion for the arts is two-pronged: she teaches a discipline based visual art program to embrace art for art’s sake and has developed unique ways of using art as a vehicle to promote literacy. She frequently shares her joy of teaching with colleagues at art institutes and teacher trainings. Her qualifications include a Master’s degree in Education and an Elementary Art Endorsement.

Location

Ryan Middle School

Contact

Angela Rutman, 452-2000 ext 474
arutman@northstar.k12.ak.us

For the full course description